Sent from my iPhone using Tapatalk I got one I purchased in the spring. I will sell it to you cheaper than buying one new and it's in perfect shape. Last edited: Sep 20, 2014 Thanks for the offer ditchbank I bought a Special Ops yesterday.I hope it works better than the new Cuddeback long range ir I bought a few weeks ago that I took back because it was taking IR pictures all the way up to the middle of the day and what pictures it did take were not very good.I bought a Moultrie M100 that worked ok but only lasted one season and died and got 0 help from CS .If this one doesn't work guess I'll take out a 2nd mortgage and get a Reconyx. I hope you have better luck with yours than the last two that I've had to send back. If the last one they sent me doesnt do any better, I'm going to just bite the bullet and switch to Reconyx. I am looking at the new strike force. Anyone have one with a review? I hope you have better luck with yours than the last two that I've had to send back. If the last one they sent me doesnt do any better, I'm going to just bite the bullet and switch to Reconyx. If the price doesn't scare you off, its the best made! Can someone give feedback on the longevity of the Reconyx cameras. The ones I have are 4+ yrs old and no issues. They are rock solid. I got one I purchased in the spring. What kind of problems were you having with yours, just curious because I have 4 Brownings, 2 range ops and 2 special ops. The special ops act little crazy when temps are above 90 degrees, battery indicators all over the place. Once it cools down to the mid 80's it straightens up, still havent figured that one out. But overall pretty pleased with them, takes great pictures. Browning Strike Force : My new Strike Force has quit working (will not power on) already sent Browning an e-mail, waiting to see what they say .. It quit? Oh no you had me talked into buying one. I will wait to see what you post about yours first. My new Strike Force has quit working (will not power on) already sent Browning an e-mail, waiting to see what they say .. Seemed to help mine with the battery indicator problem. ALSO check the Browning website, they have issued updates you can download that will fix some issues, not sure if they will help the power on situation but it might. Talked with Browning and they said just to return it and they would fix it, already in the mail ...I will note this info you posted for the future . Keep the most recent updates on your cameras....I don't do that on my computers, but my trail cameras are up to date. im curious why the updates NEEDED to be done??it seems to me if a camera is programmed to b a certian way then why should it change from day one?? unlike a computer that has to update to keep up with the on going changes. i understand it can help the performance of a cam but not whether it functions or not... Last edited: Sep 26, 2014 The Fed-Ex truck just dropped off a brand new Browning Strike Force camera, they couldn't get the one I sent in to work so they replaced it. ...I had one that leaked about 3 weeks ago. Called them and told them what happened and that it was out of warranty. They told me to send it in and I repeatedly told them that I would be more than happy to pay for a replacement camera and they would hear nothing of it. They sent me a new one within 2 days of receiving my waterlogged camera. So far 1st class customer service. Just pulled my 2nd card from a new Spec Ops XR.So far I am impressed. Set up is easy and really like the live image feature which shows exactly how to position it on tree.Day and night photos are good and have around 300 images and still 100% battery life. I gave my son in law my Browning cam. Hated to but he needed one. My next one will be the Dark Ops camera.
